AMERICANS TO BE SHOT IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12. — After delays and appeals, occupying nearly five years, the cases of C. T. Richardson, William Mason and Dr. C. S.
Harle, charged with conspiracy to murder in order to collect the insurance of their alleged victims, have ended, and nothing can save them from being shot at Chihuahua, Mexico, on Friday, Dec. 6, unless the governor of the state interposes, and this is unlikely. The supreme court of the republic has affirmed their sentence of death.

FOUR BLIND SEEK ASSISTANCE

Four blind people in La Crosse county have applied to the county board of supervisors for assistance.
The last state legislature passed a bill allowing $100 aid, when the blind are not earning over $250, or an inmate of any penal or charitable institution.

Following are those seeking aid:
B. Hyde and wife, Patience Hyde, 1029 Caledonia street.
Emma Marie Saxer, 929 South Fifth street.
Henry H. Weiler, 520 St. Andrew

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.— Court attaches today are serving summons on one hundred additional ventremen to be examined tomorrow when Mrs. Bradley's trial is to be resumed.

"GO TO —" A POLITE TERM.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 12.—By unanimous vote the supreme court held that the expression, "go to h—l" is not profanity. The case was that of Rosa Stafford, a negro girl of 12 years of age who was convicted in the lower court at Corinth of vio-

JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRACY HOLDS SWAY AT BIG MILWAUKEE BANQUET

BRYAN CHARMS THE INSPIRED THROGS

ELOQUENT NEBRASKAN CHEER-ED BY MILWAUKEEANS

THE PLAIN CITIZEN SEEN

Discusses Public Affairs With the Philosophy of True American Manhood.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.— Although the "Fairbanks cocktail" and all the drinks that sparkle and intoxicate were absent from the feast, 600 "Jeffersonian" democrats found themselves in a fine frenzy of enthusiasm over the address of William Jennings Bryan at the Plank-inton house last night. It was a splendid tribute to the Great Commoner—to the man, his principles and his eloquence.

Talks to Boys First.
Prior to the banquet Mr. Bryan spoke to Milwaukeeans at the Public Service building on behalf of the Catholic boys of the city. This talk of Mr. Bryan was rather more of a sermon than an address. He began with an appeal for help for the little homeless children of the world, saying:

"We may differ about political questions and dispute about creeds and forms of worship, but surely the little child appeals to every one."

No "Keynote" Speech.

At the Jeffersonian meeting the Nebraskan, contrary to certain per-fervid imagination, did not deliver a "keynote" speech. His was a straightforward, sane and illuminating address on the economic and political situation of the time, a discussion of the present financial crisis, of the trust evil, of the tariff and of the railroad question.

As a speaker of remarkable resource and as a man with a clarion mission, William Jennings Bryan impressed as much, if not more, at this banquet of the Jefferson club than he ever has before. The well-knit figure, with its noble Roman head; the simple, almost ministerial citizen garb; the earnest hand in-pocket attitude; appealed once more as something fine and characteristic of a fitting vehicle for the message which they convey.

Doesn't Blame President.

Early in the evening Toastmaster George W. Peck wrote a message on a cigar band reminding the other speakers that they were not wrappers but merely fillers.

Might Have Blamed Him.

Mr. Bryan's only reference to the "presidential candidacy" it was thought he might approach was in the past tense, when he said:
"I am afraid that if I had been elected president and these times (money stringency) had occurred in my administration, there might have been republican politicians who would have blamed me for what the country has suffered."

Mr. Bryan said he did not blame President Roosevelt for the "crisis."
"I thank God," he said, "that some people have come to understand that the government is a better protector of the American people than a handful of high financiers."

NEW YORK CHICAGO FLYER IS WRECKED

PITTSBURG, Nov. 12.—A hundred passengers narrowly escaped death and four were seriously injured when the Chicago-New York eighteen-hour train, leaving Pittsburg at 12:54 this morning, was wrecked in a head-on collision with a stationary freight train near Lar-mer station, twenty miles east of this city.

The collision was due, officials say, to the operator moving ten wrong lever of an interlocking switch. The flyer dashed into a caboose, disabling and derailing the engine, and converting the freight cars into a mass. Traffic was delayed for several hours. The baggage car was partially wrecked and passengers were hurled from their berths.

THE BIBLE GOT TO MR. ADAMS, MURDERER

RATHDRUM, Idaho, Nov. 12.— The biblical stories of David and St. Paul were used by Pinkerton detectives to show Steve Adams, on trial charged with murdering Fred Tyler, how forgiveness follows repentance, according to testimony brought out by Darrow today. Detective McPartland testified that after he quoted the biblical instances of forgiveness, Adams confessed Detective Thiel, also testified that Adams confessed. Since then Adams repeated his confession and denied that he said the things in his purported statement.

Brother of Murdered Coal Man Swears Phillips Told Him Wife Threatened to Kill Him

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 12. — Mrs.
Charlotte Phillips, charged with the murder of her husband, J. J. Phillips, a prominent coal man, was discharged by Justice Brown today.
The court held there was not sufficient evidence to hold her to the grand jury.

The sensation of the day came at the close of the trial late yesterday afternoon when Clyde Phillips, brother of the murdered man, said Phillips had lived in constant fear that his wife would murder him. He said about a month before the death of Phillips, he (Clyde) and his wife called at the Phillips home in East Cleveland. While there Mr. Phillips came home in his auto and went directly to the stable. Some time afterwards Clyde says he went to the barn and found the doors all locked. Breaking in through a window, he found his brother John sleeping in the auto. He awoke him and asked him why he didn't go to the house. According to Clyde's testimony, Phillips replied:

"I am afraid of my wife. She has threatened to kill me." Clyde Phillips also told of conversations with his brother in which John told of his wife having made attacks on him.
The defense was strengthened however when Ethel Phillips, the 11-year-old adopted daughter, who early in the trial, had testified that during three or four times in the summer how she said on cross examination and in reply to a question as to any signs of burglary she had noticed that she had heard a noise as if someone were putting things on the basement steps after she went downstairs with Dr. Richardson she found articles were scattered about the dining room. She also told how she looked out of a window at Mrs.
Phillips' suggestion and saw a short man at the end of the drive on the night of the tragedy. She said this man wore a dark hat and dark clothes.

Dr. Richardson's testimony tended to exculpation. He told of deathbed talks between Phillips and his wife,

HINT FIGHT TODAY OVER ASSESSMENTS

SUPERVISORS CLEAR UP MUCH

ROW MAY START TOMORROW

Many of the County Officers Will Ask for More Money for Their Services for County.

The county board of supervisors convened in annual November session in the county building this morning at 10 o'clock, and cleared away three-fourths of the routine work before the noon adjournment.
By tonight the supervisors expect to have completed the routine, and started on the new business, and to finish the session by Saturday at least.

First Tax Break.

The first break on the question of tax assessments came at the session this afternoon, when the city members of the assessments committee introduced their report. John Kind-ley, chairman of the committee, read the report, which was placed on file.

Supervisor R. W. Davis moved that the question be made a special order of business for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Chairman Kind-ley offered an objection, declaring the problem ought to be threshed out immediately and asked that it be considered tomorrow afternoon.
A standing rule of the board requires that the report remain idle one day, that the members may consider it. Other supervisors spoke in favor of considering the report on Friday, and on a viva vote, Friday was selected.

With this day set for the discussion of assessments, Ray Lewis, a county member of the assessments committee, introduced the minority report. The report of Supervisor of Assessments J. E. Kelzer was adopted by the county members. The true values, given in the table below, were used by the county members as a fair basis for taxation.

This report also will be considered at the meeting Friday afternoon. It has been the custom for several years to consider assessments and taxation on this day, when other business has been cleared away, and the board decided to adhere to the custom.

The report of the city members of the assessments committee was published in The Tribune Friday night.
Copies of the report were given the members of the board for consideration, while the report of Supervisor of Assessments Kelzer was distributed this morning.

Healthy Increase.

A healthy increase in the wealth of the county was shown in the annual report of Supervisor of Assessments J. E. Kelzer. Portions of the report have been published, but the summary shows the assessed value of the entire county. Supervisor Kelzer read the report during the morning session.

In the town of Farmington, the largest increase in the county, outside the city, is recorded. Here the boom amounted to $115,325. In the town of Holland, an increase of $87,834 is noted.

"The total assessed value of real estate and personal property shows an increase of $1,150,235, over 1906," said the supervisor of assessments. "This is an increase of $820,579 in the city, and $329,656 in the country and village districts.
My estimate of the true value on all property shows an increase of $1, 448,853 over the same estimate for 1906, of which amount $1,075,320 is in the city of La Crosse, and $373,533 in the country and village districts.

Text of Report.

"The value of property in the county is, as fixed by assessors, $29, 459,387, as fixed by this office, $31, 448,853."

FLOCK OF BIRDS IN HAT LEGAL TOPIC

Game Warden Valentine Raeth walked into a large department store and confiscated an artistic creation in the millinery department which bore a dozen swallows in flight. The hat came from Paris. It was brought for the benefit of Wisconsin school teachers, who held their convention in Milwaukee last week. The teachers made the hat the subject of vi-triotic resolutions censuring the game warden and forestry bureaus of state and nation for allowing the slaughter of innocent birds. The hat now reposes in the district attorney's office, from which comes the announcement that in the future Wisconsin milliners will not be permitted to trim hats with birds that are protected by the state law.

BANKER WALSH NOW FACES JURY TRIAL

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLING FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

HE EMPLOYS ARMY OF SPIES

Dist. Atty. Sims Says Millionaire's Private Secret Service Equals Small City "Force."

The prosecution announced that it would charge Frank McLean, assistant cashier of the Chicago National bank, with signing the "dummy" notes alleged to have been used by Walsh.

Eleven ventremen were tendered to the defense by the prosecution, and if the defense accepts them they will be sworn in at once.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—John R.
Walsh, the railroad magnate, former banker and millionaire, was brought to trial today in federal court before Judge A. B. Anderson, charged with defalcation in the sum of fifteen millions of dollars.

Walsh has counsel whose fees alone will amount to a quarter of a million. They will be fought by three assistant district attorneys.
District Attorney Sims says a force of spies is employed by Walsh larger than the police force of a small city.
These spies even tried to look into Sims's office through a telescope from a hotel across the street.

1600 Years in Prison.

There are 1600 counts in the indictment under which this trial is brought. The offense charged is punishable by a term of from five to ten years in prison. The trial will last a month at least. If Mr. Walsh is found guilty and the maximum penalty is imposed on each count the former bank president and present railroad owner can be sent to the penitentiary for 1,600 years.

The whole case revolves around the question of whether Mr. Walsh took the funds of bank depositors and used them to further his own enterprises.

Etta McLean Set Free.

Miss Etta L. McLean, Mrs. Sims' former stenographer, who stole private letters bearing on the Walsh case, was released during the day on her own recognizance. The girl will not appear in the case in any way.
Mr. Sims will not say whether she has divulged any information to the government or not.
"It will not hurt the case," was his only remark.

BADGER ALUMNI TO ENTER PROTEST

DRASTIC ATHLETIC RESTRICTIONS CAUSE TROUBLE

HAS HURT WISCONSIN GAME

Followers of Big Nine Say There Should Be at Least Seven Games to Permit Practice

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—Football enthusiasts of Wisconsin and alumni of the state university are tiring of the reactionary policy that has dominated the Madison school for two years and an organized effort is now being made to induce the faculty to abolish the drastic rules against intercollegiate athletics and take a more lenient and enlightened view of the situation.

In Jefferson county a committee of prominent citizens, alumni and supporters of the institution has been organized to protest to the board of regents of the university and to the faculty against the present system of athletics at Madison.

Similar committees, it is said, will be organized throughout the state, and all the pressure possible brought to bear on the authorities to secure the desired changes. Dr. C. P. Hutchins, director of athletics at Wisconsin, is hearty in favor of many of the changes asked, but when he attends the sessions of the intercollegiate conference, of which he is the president, he goes bound hand and foot with positive instructions from the faculty of his school and is compelled to vote for the reactionary measures when he is personally opposed to them.

Wisconsin, like every other school in the "Big Nine," except the Northwestern, wants a football schedule of seven games at least, permitting one or two practice games before the important contests come on.

DUNN NOW RESIDES IN ONALASKA, WIS.

Moncena Dunn, author of the coupon or pocket ballot, has turned novelist. Mr. Dunn, who is now a resident of the city of Onalaska, has just completed a story which is shortly to be published.

Four months of steady work has Mr. Dunn spent upon it, several times has it been revised and rewritten and the author has frequently consulted expert opinion. The object of the book is to create sentiment for the coupon ballot. It bears the significant title, "The Anarchist's Conversion."

The desirable result of the conversion of the anarchist into a good citizen is to be brought about in the author's opinion largely through the adoption of his ballot system. It is argued that any ballot which must be voted by making a special mark upon it invites dishonest election officials to make other marks, changing or spoiling the vote. The development of the plot in "The Anarchist's Conversion" leads up to the coupon ballot as the great remedy for the reform of elections and for the restoration of public confidence in them as expressions of the popular will.

Mr. Dunn, who is tireless and persistent in pushing any cause he has at heart, has by no means given up hope that the ballot plan he advocates will eventually be used all over the country. He admitted to himself when he introduced it that it would require ten years to secure its adoption. That was three years ago and in that time he has accomplished much. He induced both houses of the Wisconsin legislature in the session of 1905 to consent to a referendum on the measure, and after it had been rejected by the people, he persuaded the senate to pass it outright, while in the assembly it received a considerable vote against the open opposition of La Follette, Lenroot and Ekern. Mr. Dunn worked single handedly, received no financial backing and was assisted by no powerful politician. He made his own campaign before the people and the legislature and paid all the expenses and in each case made himself felt.

Almost every person with whom he talked in the campaign of 1906 voted for the bill, while every newspaper he interviewed, except one, gave it its support. He is not discouraged by the defeats thus far sustained and is preparing to go before the next legislature and urge the adoption of the coupon ballot scheme.

MAY GIVE WARHOP PART OF MONEY

Jack Warhop, the clever Freeport pitcher, does not think that the Freeport club could keep all of the $1,000 received from Detroit for him. A dispatch from Bloomington, Ill., says: "Should a major league association that disposed of a star player to a major club give said player a portion of the purchase money? This is a point that frequently arises to vex the management of teams in the 'Three I' and other minors, and it came up this week in Freeport, when Pitcher Jack Warhop, who was sold for $1,000 to Detroit Americans, insisted that he be given a slice of the sale money on the ground that he had worked faithfully to win the pennant for Freeport in the Wisconsin league, and at the same time acquire a reputation calculated to attract the attention of the major clubs. There was a disposition to refuse Warhop any portion of the money.

It is a difficult matter for a western football player to break into the all-American teams chosen by eastern experts. It is highly probable, however, that the University of Michigan will contribute this year's center. Big Germany Schultze is universally conceded to be one of the strongest keystones ever set in a football rush line. Even eastern coaches are acknowledging his sturdy superiority. Coach Torrey of Pennsylvania, who witnessed the Vanderbilt game at Nashville, said that Schultze is the best man he ever saw in the middle of the line. Torrey says he not only held like adamant in the center, but ran out to the ends and made two-thirds of the tackles.

This tribute from the east is considered in the west to clinch Germany Schultze's all-American chances. The west has long known his power, the east now apparently recognizes it. His weight is 215 pounds and he is one of Michigan's old stars.

port association barely made expenses during the recent season, even with the money received from Warhop's sale. It was finally voted by the association to leave the question of Warhop's claim to the directors with power to act.

Freeport drew 32,973 admissions during the recent season.

MADISON SCHOOL SEEKS CHAMPIONSHIP

The Madison high school is after the championship and is playing all teams which have made a showing.

The Madison State Journal says: "The Sparta high school team which has a proud record, will play Madison next Saturday at Camp Randall."

Madison is hot after the championship and if the locals get by the Sparta game safely, it is a safe bet that championship honors will come this way.

EMERY ANSWERS "WHAT TO EAT" DIG

If we agree with the statement of Attorney General Bonaparte, approved by the president of the United States, that the subject of food legislation is the protection of the great consuming public, then the element of 'uniformity' to be regarded as desirable is uniformity in vigor and effectiveness in securing protection to the consuming public against deception and fraud in food products.

"But, upon the other hand, if the prime object of food legislation is not to make the way of the transgressor hard, but to remove from the 'trade' the hardships incident to manufacturing and selling wholesome and honest foods under honest and truthful labels, then 'uniformity' in food laws is quite another matter."

"Of course, from this point of view, the hardships of the consumers who ask and pay for a fish and get a serpent instead, or who ask and pay for bread and get instead a stone, who, in other words, ask and pay for the genuine and receive instead a counterfeit, are not to be considered."

"In concluding the address, I said: 'I am in favor of such uniform national and state food laws as can be made to comprise the strongest and most vigorous features of present state and national laws, enacted with the purpose and with the effect of protecting the consuming public against adulteration and fraud, without imposing any hardships on the trade not necessary to the accomplishment of that purpose.' But I am opposed to that uniformity in national and state food laws which names only to relieve the trade from hardship, by writing into those laws the weakest and least effective features of present laws, and 'such cunning ingenuity' that while 'bearing a fair countenance, they carry the elements of disaster to the consuming public.'"

"Instead, therefore, of denouncing uniformity, as is claimed by the What to Eat editorial, I distinctly defined the uniformity in state and national food laws that I favor and the kind of uniformity to which I am opposed. As the What to Eat editor objects to the kind of uniformity I favor, it is only fair to assume that he favors the kind of uniformity to which I am opposed, and, as before stated, this difference between him and me no doubt results from the different in rests that each represents."

"I am writing to the editor of What to Eat, stating that the most fitting reply I can make to his tissue of disingenuous and erroneous statements concerning my Jamestown address is to tender him an exact copy of that address for publication in his journal. I venture the prediction that that address will not be published by him, although it has a ready appeared in other food journals."

"As the Association of State and National Food Departments at its Jamestown meeting adopted a resolution favoring the uniformity described by me, using my exact language in that description, it is very clear that that association was in entire harmony with the views I presented. 'Strange language' the editor of What to Eat uses in his effort to make it appear that my address was not in perfect harmony with the views of that association! It is not true, as stated by him, that I denounced the national food law as a subterfuge. What I did was to point out certain weaknesses in that law that a national aggregation of food purveyors were trying to inject into state laws under the bland plea of uniformity. I said: 'Because the open and secret enemies of vigorous and effective food legislation may have succeeded in introducing some weak, ineffective or untried elements into the national food law, should the states that for years have been enacting and enforcing food laws abandon strong and effective features of their own laws and adopt instead the less vigorous or effective features of the national law because, forsooth, those features of the state law work a hardship on the trade? If the end sought by food legislation is to remove 'hardships'

CATARRH BLOOD UNHEALTHY SYSTEM DERANGED

The entire inner portion of the body is covered with mucous membrane; this membranous tissue is abundantly supplied with blood vessels, veins, arteries, and capillaries. Each of these is constantly supplying to this tissue or lining, blood to nourish and strengthen it and keep the system healthy. When the blood becomes infected with catarrhal matter it is not able to furnish the required amount of healthful properties, but feeds the parts with impurities which disease the membranes and tissues so that they become irritated and inflamed, and Catarrh, with all its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, is established in the system. There is a constant ringing in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, the breath has an offensive odor, slight fever often accompanies the disease, and gradually the entire health becomes affected and the system upset and deranged. In its earlier stages, when Catarrh is confined to the nose and throat, sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are soothing and in a way beneficial, because they are clean and usually antiseptic, but such treatment has no curative effect, because it does not reach the blood. To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its foundation; it removes the cause and makes the blood pure and healthy. Then the blood vessels are filled with fresh, reinvigorated blood, which is carried to all the mucous surfaces and linings, the inflammation and irritation are corrected, the symptoms all disappear, the health is improved and Catarrh is permanently cured. from the trade, then why not repeal all food laws—state and national? The fact is that the friends of pure food laws accepted the present national law upon the theory that half a loaf is better than no loaf."

"It seems best to the editor of What to Eat and the interests he represents to endeavor to pervert the statements of my address instead of giving it to its readers. I herewith hand you a copy of that address."

"In that address I advocated the adoption by the states and the national government of the standards for purity of foods as proclaimed by the U. S. secretary of agriculture as one of the most effective means of securing uniformity in food laws throughout the country. The What to Eat article made no mention of this, nor have I ever read any endorsement of those standards in What to Eat. My references to the opinion of United States Attorney General Bonaparte showed me to be in harmony with his opinion on the national law. Can What to Eat say as much?"

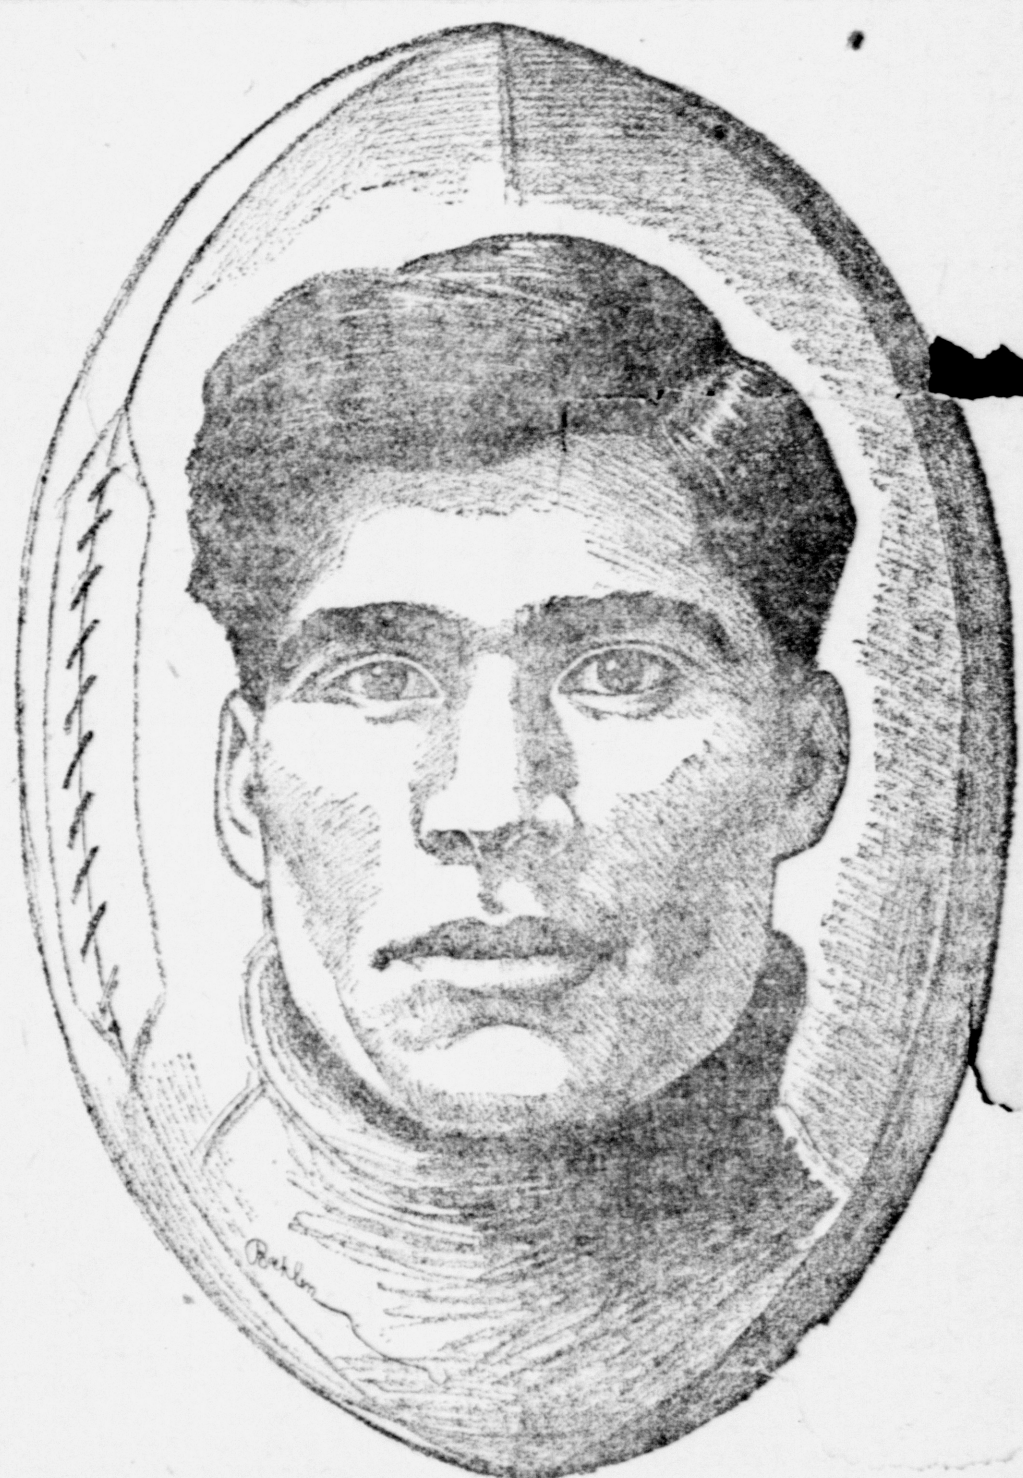

THE COLOR LINE IN CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP.

(Philadelphia Public Ledger.) Southern negroes appear more than commonly ridiculous in the fuss they are making because Bishop Potter of New York had Bishop Ferguson of Cape Palmas to dine with him in Richmond. Apart from the obvious remark that a visiting bishop's dinner guests are not a public concern, it is scarcely less obvious that the bishop of Cape Palmas, who is a grave and dignified little gentleman with a dark skin and white hair, holds precisely the same spiritual office as the bishop of New York, and is, in the fullest official sense, his "brother." It never has been suggested, from the days of Philip and the Ethiopian, that color was a bar to Christian fellowship.

WHAT TO EAT AND EMERY.

An editorial in "What to Eat," published elsewhere in this newspaper, takes State Food Commissioner Joseph Q. Emery to task for his hostility to some features of the national pure food law, as expressed in the commissioner's Jamestown address.In reply thereto, in an interview with The Tribune's Madison correspondent, Mr. Emery strikes back in telling fashion:The conflict is between national and state laws governing purity in foods. Emery is quoted as calling the national law a pitiable excuse, patched up to appease the public without hampering the manufacturers of questionable food products, or at least, so drawn as not to afford adequate protection. He does affirm that the Wisconsin law is superior in mode and efficiency, and advocates a uniform system of state laws, but there is not in his language the drastic criticism suggested by his critic.One of the things in which he thinks the state law more efficient is the feature in it providing for the arrest and punishment of the retailer who handles impure foods, whereas the national law makes the manufacturer the culprit, but this was only discussed as an incident to efficient enforcement.With strength and logic What to Eat points out the fact that the manufacturer who adulterates the stuff and sells it to the retailer is the blameable party, and the retailer cannot protect himself because he is not a chemist and cannot know that the stuff he buys is not what it is cracked up to be. That is fair, so far as are concerned cases in which the retailer is actually innocent of wrong intention and without knowledge of the improper elements in the food sold.There are two sides to this story, as to all stories. What to Eat seems to have struck a true lead in saying that the retailer is more imposed upon than guilty, and that the manufacturer who put in the forbidden adulterants is the one who should suffer the law's penalty. It might have gone further and added that a nice application of the national law would solve the problem by making it impossible for the retailer to have bad foods in his possession.On the other hand, the national law is not strong in all particulars.
It is notably weak in its failure to demand that packages and cans of food stuffs shall be plainly labeled with the date of manufacture. What was good to eat in 1906 may be bad to eat in 1907. But who can tell?
The operation of the national law, if permitted to become the exclusive arbiter of the pure food court, would eliminate the valuable and watchful activity of the state pure food commissioners, and would reduce the danger of illegal operations on the part of unscrupulous manufacturers.Of course the right solution is a really strong national pure food law, with state laws in exact conformity.
The retailer, it seems, should not be made to suffer for handling impure foods.

MEN OF NOTE

Charles N. Haskell

Charles N. Haskell, the democrat who has been chosen as the first executive to rule over the destinies of the new state of Oklahoma is one of the strongest characters in the southwest. While not extremely wealthy he has been successful in his business ventures and has the confidence of the business element generally. He beat his republican opponent Mr. Frank Frantz by a big majority.foods of whose bad character he had no knowledge. On the other hand, if the state can conduct its own department, putting a ban on foods it believes to be bad even though they may have scraped muster past the national inspection, the proposal of Mr. Emery could not fail to be a reinforcement of the efforts of the national commission. We do not believe that the national law was dishonestly passed at the nod of the manufacturers, but it appears true that in conformity with its policy of taking half a loaf when a whole loaf seemed inaccessible, the Roosevelt administration permitted a faulty law to pass. What to Eat, Mr. Emery agrees suggests, has interests less in accord with those of the consumer than with those of the manufacturer. He seems to show conclusively that the magazine neither interprets him rightly nor quotes him fairly. As his ideas have the approval of both the national association and the federal administration, his quarrel with What to Eat seems of no consequence to him or to the people of this state.

HOME MONEY FOR HOME THINGS

It will be learned with pleasure in La Crosse that the efforts of local civic bodies to promote the home sale of home goods is progressing nicely.
It should. Logic and patriotism, even cupidity, are on that side.What argument is there against everybody in La Crosse giving preference to Summit stoves, ranges and furnaces? They are made here, and they have no competitor that is not an outsider. The only fair question is one of merit, and that seems to have been answered in a way flattering to the Summit people. We know of but one Summit furnace installed in La Crosse that failed to give satisfaction, and in that case it is doubtful if faulty installment was not responsible. One case in scores is not a bad percentage; it will bear comparison with any record to be found.
An official of The Tribune company recently purchased a Summit furnace for a house notoriously a bad heater.
Its superiority has been demonstrated, and one of the most pleasing discoveries is that its fuel consumption will not exceed half that of a furnace of well-known make of which it took the place.Another home institution that has no home competitor and that should have the undivided patronage of La Crosse people, is the Langdon & Boyd packing industry. In that institution two hustling young men have bent their efforts with industryGeorge Leslie and Leila Smith, the Blue Jay and Jenny Wren, in Henry W. Savage's Production at La Crosse Theatre, Tonight.
The ordinance will probably be brought up for final action at the city council.and intelligence to the building up of a capacious and sanitary modern packing plant. Their product has no superiors and the money they make stays in La Crosse. These things are worth thinking about by people who have their eggs in the same basket—La Crosse.

THE LA CRESCENT ROAD.

There can be no denying the justification of Minnesota farmers' claim that the causeway from La Crescent to the wagon bridge should be immediately repaired. To say that they should do it is on a parity with saying there is business sense or justification in the charging of tolls on that bridge to people who wish only to come here to spend their money.
The policy of neglecting this most important single avenue of traffic is a folly for which we will pay dearly, as is fairly indicated by the fact that Houston and other near-by Minnesota towns have been enabled to build them selves up as shipping points because of the disagreeable features of a trip to La Crosse. To say the city has no legal right to spend money there is begging the question, for it has established the precedent of expending many thousands there, and even now is just finishing a some-thousands-of-dollars decorative bridge in Pettibone park. Praiseworthy as is this recognition of the generosity of a liberal benefactor, it is not more important than legitimate effort to keep all lines of access to the city open and in reasonable repair. The La Crescent road is a disgrace.Scarcely had the public become used to the knowledge that George Washington, the epitome of honesty, was in his day a notorious tax-dogger, than there comes to the front another historian whose burden of information is that General Grant wanted to be a rebel. Now if some one will offer evidence that Carry Nation is abacanthian, and that Rudyard Kipling is a plagiarist, we will have completely lost our perspective.To hear them tell it, the outcome in Cleveland and New York was eminently satisfactory to national republican leaders. Most of the non-political public is frank enough to say it is satisfied with what happened in Cleveland and much disappointed with the affairs in New York.Possibly there might be some advantage to Mr. Pfister in retaining ex-Governor Scofield.

KNICKERBOCKER.

(London Chronicle.)

How many Englishmen outside the circle of the stock exchange, when the dreadful news was flashed across the wires that the Knickerbocker Trust had suspended payment, could have correctly named the commodity in which the trust deals? Remembering, perhaps, that the Knickerbocker club of New York is composed of millionaires we should probably have avoided associating the trust with the tailor. The New York financier's fondness for the name, whether for clubs or banks, is a tribute to the genius of Washington Irving, who just a century ago entered triumphantly into the field of English literature with his burlesque history of New York, under the fanciful name of Diedrich Knickerbocker.The book which Sir Walter Scott so much admired, with its pictures by George Cruikshank of the typical Dutchmen of New Amsterdam, has thus served to give a name to the garment beloved of sportsmen, tourists, trusts and clubs in the state of New York. Those who like to see the finger of destiny in trifles will be pleased to know that "Knickerbocker" is compounded of two German words, "knicker" for niggard, and "bock" for box—felicitous name for a trust whose supplies of gold have dried up.

SPOTLIGHTS

"Woodland" Tonight.
Henry W. Savage will bring his pretty aviary of birds to the La Crosse theatre tonight, where they will bill and coo and twitter when the superb production of the Pixley and Luders quaint bird opera will be presented for the first time here.In "Woodland" there are some three score of more of young women costumed to represent blackbirds, dainty canaries, pert wrens, statuesque peacocks, demure doves, mischievous sparrows, not forgetting the comical blue jay and the foolishly bold rooster, who are the cause of all the troubles revealed by this quaint and somewhat novel plot.
Both Pixley and Luders, who are also the authors of "The Prince of Pilsen" and "King Dodo," deserves credit for the creation of this innocent, diversion in the way of musical comedy. The very novelty of the story told in "Woodland" will be found refreshing, with genuine humor and music that has the true ring of merit. Nothing from the pen of the gifted Luders has quite touched popular favor as has this melodious score of his—as it has been termed—Audubonesque musical frolic. Wherever "Woodland" has been presented it has met with unstinted praise and success, and will be given here in the same elaborate manner which characterized its original presentation in New York, where it enjoyed four months of prosperity.

At the Bijou.

The Bijou presented a very creditable performance last evening to two crowded houses. Frank Marckly, the Pacific coast's premier ban-joist, acquitted himself with honors.
He plays well and with wonderful execution, but the artistic beauty of the Poet and Peasant overture was somewhat marred by being played too fast. Black and Leslie, comedy novelty artists, do an interesting turn. Mr. Black's one-legged dancing is quite a feature and must take both courage and skill to do.Paul La Drew in the "Daffy Dame," really is that individual to perfection. His make up is startling and then the duck does its part too.
Burns, Morris and Co., present a comedy sketch, "What Happened to O'Hara," which is well received.Mr. Morris is a very good Irish man and although there is a little more horse-play than one cares to see, it is interesting. Mr. Burns is quite versatile in his different character sketches.The moving pictures are fine, especially the first one, "Life in a Burmah Teak Forest," which gives one an idea of what elephants really do outside of the circus. Mr. Louis La Valle sings "Nobody's Little Girl." The views are very pretty and Mr. La Valle's singing is pleasurable to listen to. Kreutz's orchestra enlivens the performance

She sat beside me at the play.
I knew her not at all.
But in a coy and careless way She let her hatpins fall Beneath the seat, between my feet, Of course I had to find 'em.And as I handed them to her (Ah, happy finger-touch!)
She said to me, she said, said she,
"Oh, thank you—very much!"She stood beside me in the car, And we were strangers quite.
I wasn't going very far, And so I thought I might Give up my seat to rest her feet (Now, wasn't that polite?)As from the overhanging strap She loosed her frantic clutch,
She said to me, she said, said she,
"Oh, thank you—very much!"She passed me on the avenue, As promenaders pass,
Her dainty kerchief, dotted blue,
And airy-light as gas,
She dropped behind. I strove to find,
And found it for the lass.And as I placed it in her hand, Profaned with gutter smutch,
She said to me, she said, said she,
"Oh, thank you—very much!"Now, this was not one woman lone,
But these were ladies three;
And many more from zone to zone Have thus been served by me, And other men who're helpful when They cannot help but be.And ever thus we get their thanks (It surely beats the Dutch).
They always say them this way,
"Oh, thank you—very much—"I hope some time before I go To fill a tomb or urn
The ladies may not thank me so—For thanks I do not yearn.
Yet if they don't, stay dead I won't—I surely shall return!I shall return from out the pit, And haply one may touch My ghost and say, the same old way,
"Oh, thank you—very much!"

"No, no," Winship cried. "That's not fair. That's not what I ask for.
I ask only that she shall come to me as she is, without money, without dowry. I'm not trying to force her into putting any construction on the act—""And I'm not splitting hairs," Trafford interrupted, scornfully.
"I'm not drawing nice philosophical distinctions. If she doesn't put a construction on the act, you will, and the world will. Paula, darling, he wants you to refuse my money because it's blood-money. Those are his words. He wants you to marry him without a penny. Then everyone will be able to say that Paul Trafford must be what his enemies and traducers have called him, because his own daughter thinks him so.""Oh, no, Roger, you don't mean that!""He means more, dearest. He means that, as you are all I have, so even that shall be taken from me."

"But I couldn't be!"

"That's for you to decide, dear—and to decide now. He knows that I could bear up against the world, whatever it might say, whatever it might be led to believe. But he knows, too, that what I couldn't bear up against is that you should say, 'Papa, I can't touch your money.
I can't touch your hand, because they're full of blood.'""Roger, I wish you'd speak!" she pleaded. "I wish you'd tell me yourself what it all means.""How can I tell you?" he asked, moving towards her with hands outstretched, as if in petition. "Can't you guess? Can't you see? Don't you know how this stupendous fortune has been brought together?
Don't you know that it's been by every form of financial jugglery the mind has been able to invent? Don't you know that it's been by ways as cooked as they were cruel? Don't you know that it's been by a system of deprecation so gigantic that even the common opinion of the common world has risen in revolt against it?""You lie!" George Trafford shouted. It was as if the bull-dog had torn away from its leash and sprung at Winship's throat."Be quiet, George," Laura begged."Stand back," Winship said, in a tone of authority. "I'm here to explain to Miss Trafford, the woman I love, and who loves me. I lie, do I?
Then why have you Traffords, and your monopolies, been hunted from court to court, throughout the whole land of America? Why is the press ringing daily with your name, and calling for justice against you? Why have you been driven to every legal shift in order to dodge, or twist, or circumvent the law? Why have you spent millions to buy up clever men, to corrupt politicians, to bribe a press, and to purchase a little public that might stand by you? You have no friends but paid friends, and no standing except among those who are overawed by the brutality of your power. Even so, no one knows better than yourselves that that power will not stand a day when once the moral wits of the people are awakened; no one knows better than yourselves that the very synchronism of your success will be the first rejoice in your downfall. And yet you—'a Trafford'—dare to tell me that I lie! Dear Paula!" he went on, in another tone, turning again to the girl, who stood listening with white face and terrified eyes—"Dear Paula, I'm saying nothing new. It's only what's notorious to the world.
You're the only person, perhaps, on earth who doesn't know it all. If it had been possible to keep it from you, I should have done it. But it isn't possible. Sooner or later you must have learned it. Don't you understand, then, that when I see you in the midst of all this"—he threw out his arms with a wide gesture—"it's as if I saw you living in, clothed in, the ruin of beggared men and hungry women and children? When I see you in my like splendor, your pearls are to me like their tears, your rubies like their sweat of blood. I can't bear it. I can't bear it. It's like desecration.
It's like sacrilege. I must take you out of it. Oh, come away—come away!"

"And leave my father?"

"You needn't leave him. You need only leave—all this.""Is there no way by which love could make some—some reconciliation?"

"None."

"Then, papa," she said, in a dull tone, "I'm your daughter. If I have to make the choice, it must be you."She moved across the room to his side, slipping her arm into his.Winship raised his hands again, with their petitioning gesture, but before the look of pathetic reproach in her eyes, he let them fall again."Paula," Trafford said, in a voice that shook a little, "I've let this man speak. You've heard him to the end.
Now tell him that you believe in me.
Tell him that his charges have failed.""Oh, papa," she returned, wearily, "how can it matter what I say?
I'm so tired of it all. I give him up; I'm going to stay with you. Isn't that enough?"Winship could see, as he had seen once before, the ashen hue steal over Trafford's face."Yes, dear," he murmured, dropping his daughter's hand. "I suppose it is enough. It will have to be."There was a minute's pause, a then a simultaneous movement. At Trafford's little nod Paula went away. Winship's association opened today.

OVER BLOUSE OR JUMPER 5818.

Modified Mandarin sleeves, or those that are of moderate width, make a most fascinating and altogether desirable feature of present styles. This over blouse includes such and also is made with the narrow opening at the neck which marks the latest designs while it is equally desirable for the separate blouse and for the gown. In the illustration it is made of checked Louise with trimming of taffeta embroidered and a lace edging while it is worn over a gimp of figured net, but it is appropriate for almost all seasonable materials. Crepe de Chine is being greatly used for indoor occasions and is charming so made; landowne promises to be a favorite and takes altogether satisfactory lines and folds and almost every material of indoor dress is thin and light enough to be so made with success. The shaped collar is a pretty and altogether desirable feature while the bands on the sleeves are distinctly novel. These can be made of almost any contrasting material and can be trimmed with embroidery, with applique or with soutache, that is such a pronounced favorite of the season.The over blouse is made in one piece and is tucked over the shoulders, the sleeves being cut in one with it. The shaped collar finishes the neck edge and the bands finish the edges of the sleeves. The closing is made invisibly at the back.The quantity of material required for the medium size is 2½ yards 21 or 1¼ yard 44 inches wide with ¾ yard of taffeta for the collar and bands and 4½ yards of lace edging.
The pattern 5818 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inch bust measure and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper or receipt of ten cents.

HIRSHHEIMER'S RIGHT TO STOP WORK QUESTIONED

WHO OWNS THE RIVER BED?

Question Is Brought Up by Men Stopped Temporarily From Re-covering Sunken Lumber

The stopping of the men engaged in digging up the sunken lumber in Black river by H. J. Hirschheimer has brought up again the much discussed question of whether or not a man owning property along the river has any right to control the water beyond the river bank on a navigable stream.

This is a question that will be of much interest to people in La Crosse and especially boat owners. For some time it has been the custom, where it originated is not known, to charge people dockage for boat houses that were tied along the river. By some this is considered to be illegal while others contend that the owner has power over the river as far as the channel.

According to certain law authorities the channel of the stream is considered the middle of the river, no matter what channel is picked out by the boats.

When talking of the matter of the digging up of the lumber Attorney Schweizer said that it was more to put a stop to the digging than anything else, and that some satisfactory settlement would no doubt be made between Mr. Hirschheimer and the men who were employed in raising the lumber.

It is said the men who have been recovering the lumber from the river bed and making a fair profit on their work may contest Hirschheimer's right to interfere with them.

ARM CRUSHED ON WORK TRAIN

According to advices received here A. A. Welch, 1801 Loomis street, an employe of the Burlington, had his right arm smashed while at work on a work train at Bay City. Mr. Welch was on a flat car and reached down to "cut out" the air while the train was running. The angle-cock stuck and Mr. Welch reached a little further in his efforts to shove it over, when his arm was caught, just above the elbow. Fortunately the bone was not broken, but the muscle was smashed and his arm terribly lacerated. He will be laid up for some time as a result of the injury. Mr. Welch is a brother to Sam Welch the George street saloonkeeper.

BLACK RIVER IS PARTLY FROZEN

Last night was the coldest night of this year, the temperature dropping 20 degrees above zero. Some portions of Black river were frozen clear across and it is said that some of the more venturesome of North side boys were skating on the slough along the river.

With the freezing of the sloughs and small tributaries of the river the duck season has received a blow, there being very little open water left.

FARMER'S FAMILY THROWN FROM RIG

William Hazlebusch, the well known West Salem road farmer, met with a peculiar accident while turning the corner at Gillette and George streets yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hazlebusch, wife and daughter were driving in a light road wagon and while turning the corner the seat was thrown out of place throwing the occupants to the street. Fortunately no one was injured and Mr. Hazlebusch succeeded in stopping the team before it had any chance to run away.

ency for his very active work. Such praise has been an incentive to still greater efforts, and so his energy has grown and grown from one cause and another until now he is one of the most energetic food officers in the world.

"He recently was invited to make a speech before the State Dairy and Food Officers at the Jamestown Exposition. In that speech he denounced the National Food Law as being a subterfuge, devised with "cunning ingenuity" to enable the manufacturer to still foist impure foods upon the public, and stated that the law, "while bearing a fair countenance," still carries "the elements of disaster to the consuming public."

He practically appealed to all state food officers to seque state food laws more exacting in their requirements than the National Food Law, and to establish standards and means of regulation of their own independent of the National Law.

"Mr. Emery is an honored member of the National and State Associations of Dairy and Food Departments, the avowed object of which, as stated in the constitution is to secure uniform food laws and regulations. He has given his pledge to devote his energies toward the achievement of this object.

"Then what a surprise it is to hear Mr. Emery telling the people that the National Law is a farce and advising state food officers to establish food standards and regulations

"But under the bland plea of uniformity Wisconsin would be asked to repeal this effective law, and adopt an impotent one without standards.

"Some of our states have specific laws forbidding the sale of foods containing certain specific preservative and antiseptics. Wisconsin is one of those states. Such a statute can be effectively enforced. It furnishes protection to the consumers; but under the shibboleth of uniformity we are asked to have these effective laws enacted that deal in their stead laws enacted that deal in glittering generalities, and whose enforcement is, thereby, made extremely difficult if not impossible, and all this under a seductive plea for uniformity.

"Strange language this for a man who is part of an organization whose avowed purpose is to cause all states to enact uniform laws and establish uniform regulations. Strange language from a man who is on record as supporting the enactment of the national food law. It is passing strange if the government of the United States with all its able chemists and earnest workers under the Roosevelt administration is not as capable as the state of Wisconsin in enacting and enforcing an efficient food law.

"We think it barely possible that Mr. Emery has grown a little too strenuous in his eagerness to serve his constituency. It may be that the national food law is not all that it should be. In such a case the efforts of all food officers should be to amend it until it is efficient. There is no denying the fact, however, that the National law already has proved a blessing to the consuming public, and caused a revolution in trade conditions. It would seem to be better, therefore, for all the food officers to work together in trying to make the law as effective as possible.

No Good Possible.

"Neither the state nor the nation can expect any good results by contrary regulations and legislation, but both the state and the nation can get just the kind of legislation they want if they will work in harmony in striving for the common good of all. So come back into the fold, Mr.

Mr. Koch was referred by a friend to the wonderful liquid remedy, D. D. D. Prescription, which is a specific for eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, barber's itch, and other diseases of the skin.

Almost the first application on the little girl's delicate skin caused the itch to go away and her skin began to heal.

Mr. Koch, writing about the case, says: "We have used D. D. D. Prescription and find it the best we ever tried for eczema. Our little girl was afflicted with this disease for several years. We tried everything we ever heard of and nothing did her any good until we heard of your remedy. We used four bottles and it cured the child. That was eight years ago and the disease never has returned. I can recommend your D. D. D. highly to any one afflicted with eczema."

D. D. D. Prescription is a purely vegetable external remedy that is applied direct to the terrible itching parts. It gives relief instantly and almost immediately the signs of a cure are seen. A short use and the terrible itching scales fall off, the skin cools, the inflammation goes away and soon it is white and healthy. This remedy follows the principles of the latest learned skin specialists that eczema is in the skin, not in the blood, and consequently should be treated through the skin and not through the stomach.

of their own. It is nearly as much of a surprise as it is to hear from a state food commissioner that the National Law is simply 'a cunning device,' enacted in the interests of the food adulterator, and designed to pull the wool over the eyes of the consuming public.

"If all these statements denouncing the National Food Law are true, Mr. Emery ought to have made known the fact before the law was enacted.

Wants Retailers Liable.

"A feature of the National law that Mr. Emery especially opposes is the provision that the manufacturer of the food and not the retailer shall be held responsible for violations of the law. He thinks that the guarantee from the manufacturer has no weight, whatever, and when an adulterated article of food is found in the possession of the retailer, the retailer should suffer the penalty.

At the same time he urges that the state laws be more exacting in their requirements than the national law.

"The retailers of Wisconsin are to be pitied if this opinion of Mr. Emery is carried into execution in that state. None of them will know when he opens his store in the morning whether or not he will be arrested before night.

"If the National Law says that a food shall contain 80 per cent of a certain ingredient, and the Wisconsin law says it shall contain 90 per cent, the manufacturer, who may be in Chicago or New York, will, of course, make his foods in accordance with the requirements of the National law. Then when the foods reach the Wisconsin retailer they are found to be in violation of the state laws. The manufacturer cannot be punished, under the national law, for he complied with the provisions governing interstate commerce. But the poor little retailer who had nothing to do with the making of the foods, who has no chemist to examine them, and who is depending entirely on the guarantee of the manufacturer, labeled on the foods as required by the national law, must be arrested and fined, all because the state food law requires something more or less than the national law requires.

Calls it Unjust.

"This is certainly injustice's crown of justice. It is unnecessary to argue with any fair minded person that the man who paces the adulteration in the food is the one who ought to pay the penalty. It is unnecessary to argue that the little retailer, unequipped for the chemical examination of all the foods in his store, and who often ekes out a very scanty existence from the sales in his corner grocery, ought not to suffer for the wrongs committed by the millionaire manufacturer.

"According to the provisions of the national law, each article of food must bear a written guarantee, signed by the manufacturer. If the food is in accordance with the provisions of the National law, as stated in that guarantee, the retailer who sells the foods containing the guarantee certainly ought not to be punished, merely because of the arbitrary rulings of some state food commissioner. If the foods are not in compliance with the guarantee, the rich manufacturer who signed the false statement, and not the defenseless retailer, ought to be the one to suffer.

Uncle Sam Big Enough.

"Certainly the United States government is big enough and just enough to see that such an offender is punished when the government's attention is called to the violation! Wisconsin has a very strict food law. In speaking of the effort to have state food laws enacted in accordance with the national law, Mr. Emery says:

"But under the bland plea of uniformity Wisconsin would be asked to repeal this effective law, and adopt an impotent one without standards.

Constipation, Nervous Debility, Weak Back and Kidney and Other Diseases Cured by Remarkable New Remedy.

Chronic constipation, complete loss of nerve force, loss of ambition and even the nervous debility resulting from excess and old age, is being quickly and absolutely cured by a new remedy of tropical fruit extracts, which for results has proven to be little short of marvelous.

The remedy is not a patent medicine, but a simple cure which any suffering man or woman can mix at home in a few moments' time.

There are dozens of the most serious diseases which come from loss of nerve force, and this remedy not only cures chronic constipation, but also nervous diseases, nervous debility, loss of vitality, lost power, insomnia, brain fog, weak back and kidney disease.

It has wonderful power in building up weak nerve tissues, giving strength to weak nerves and giving back to weakened men and women that full possession of vigor, health and nerve force which makes life itself one round of happiness and pleasure.

The remedy is mixed as follows: Mix one ounce of Obifruit Compound Extract with seven ounces of port wine or unfermented grape juice. Of this mixture, take one dessertspoonful three or four times a day before each meal and at bedtime.

This remedy is absolutely harmless, containing no alcohol, no narcotics, and no mineral or animal matter whatever. It is not merely a temporary stimulant, but a permanent nerve-tissue builder and because of its remarkable power of preventing the approach of nerve-weakness, caused by old age or excess, should be kept constantly on hand for family use.

The ingredients of this remedy, Obifruit Compound Extract, and the port wine or unfermented grape juice, can be obtained at almost any drugstore.

DEBATING CLUB HOLDS BANQUET

The Lincoln-Douglas Debating society of the La Crosse high school held their annual banquet at the high school last evening. The event was attended by the members and the faculty and was held in the classroom which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Following the menu which consisted of bouillon, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee, the young men enjoyed a social hour during which members of the faculty and society responded to impromptu toasts. The feature of the evening was a German dialect poem, "Mine Gott and I," which was recited by Prof. Benetz. The banquet was the most successful and entertaining event ever held by the club.

"QUEENIE" LINN BACK FROM TRAVEL

"Queenie" Linn, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Linn, who mysteriously left her home in September, returned yesterday attired in the same clothes in which she left, and which were considerably the worse for wear. She tells a rambling story of being a companion for a woman named Morris, who was furnished money by a man called "Spots." She claims to have gone first to the Winona street fair, then to Chicago, New York and Canada.

Cured of Bright's Disease

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elnora, N. Y., writes: "Before I started to use Foley's Kidney Cure I had to get up from twelve to twenty times a night, and I was all bloated up with dropsy and my eyesight was so impaired I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50 cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright disease." O. T. Erhart.

RETURNS THIS WEEK—Mr. O. to Goetzke, captain of the launch "Otto," who has been camping in his houseboat near his property at Grabhorn Springs for the past week expects to return to the city this week. He is spending the time chopping wood from his land and in hunting and fishing. He reports pike plentiful.
PICTURES OF CLUB—There has just been delivered to the Elks' club a set of photographs of the new club rooms, taken at the time of the Elk stag affair, a few weeks ago, when the club had been artistically decorated with flowers and ferns. The pictures show the club to good advantage and form an interesting collection.
ENGINES IN DANGER—The cold nights now being experienced are dangerous to the safety of water cooled gasoline engines, especially in launches. Unless the cylinders and other water jacketed parts of the engines are drained after they are used, they are in imminent danger of freezing, which would probably result in bursting the cylinders.
DUCK HUNTING POOR—Local duck hunters find that so far this season no great number of ducks have been flying. A hunter who captures two or three of the feathered creatures makes a record, whereas, when the ducks are flying well, a couple of dozen is a medium bag.

SERVICES AT JAIL—The Central W. C. T. U. held a meeting at the county jail Sunday afternoon, through the courtesy of Sheriff Burns. Rev. Cunningham of the West Avenue Methodist church conducted the services and was assisted by Master Oscar Velle, of the City Mission.
TAKEN TO HOSPITAL—John Banker, Badger and Seventeenth streets, formerly a member of the board of public works, was taken to the La Crosse hospital today. He has been ailing for some time with kidney trouble. His condition, however, is not serious and he was resting easily today.
WINONA DINNER—A party of La Crosse young people partook of dinner at the Winona on Saturday evening. Included in the party were T. S. Wilson and wife, Misses Helen Anderson, Jeannette Hankerson, Gretchen Selzer, Dorothy Hixon, Elia Hixon, Gangot, Kate Hargreaves and Lillian Waters, and F. Nugent.—Winona Rep.-Herald.
MOVEMENT OF BOATS—The pleasure boat Kabekona went down river this morning from a trip to St. Paul. The Alert went up river this morning.
DRESSED HOGS COME—Farmers in large numbers were coming into this city this morning with dressed hogs. The hogs dressed are bringing from $6.50 to $7 per hundred.
CLEAN INTAKE PIPE—The city has a crew of men at work today cleaning the intake pipe at the foot of Cass street and preparing the pipes for winter. City Diver Hoffman is in charge of the work.

Deceased is survived by a husband and four daughters, Mrs. L. Ruud, Mrs. Charles Hagen of this city, Mrs. Renning of Minneapolis and Mrs. J. M. Anderson of Caledonia, Minn.

TO TAKE WIRES TO WINONA OVER BRIDGE
At last night's meeting of the Winona council an ordinance was given its first and second readings, which if passed at a later date will give the La Crosse Water Power company permission to bring to Winona its current from the big Hatfield dam by stringing the wires over the top of the high wagon bridge.
The council has placed the limit of the franchise June 13, 1929, this being the same date that the street car and electric light franchises in the city expire.
The ordinance will probably be brought up for final action at the next council meeting.

THOUSAND TROUBLE

DR. WHIPPLE TELLS OF HIS JAIL LIFE

LOCKED IN LOFT WITH NOT SO MUCH ON

"CONVERTED" OLAF OLSON

He Is Now Located in Rochester and Doing Nice Business—Talks of Laws

"I served forty days on the rockpile in this city because my friend, Governor Johnson of Minnesota, went on a visit."

Dr. Whipple, who is now located in Rochester, Minn., is making a brief stay in the city. He recounts with some humor the experiences with which he met in La Crosse during his career as a chiropractor here, terminating with his conviction on a charge of practicing osteopathy without a license, attached to which was a $250 fine which he "worked off" on the rock pile at the county jail.

"Governor Johnson was out of the city when the extradition was sought," continued Dr. Whipple. "The lieutenant governor honored it in his absence, and Johnson and I had the glory of being the first men ever taken out of the state of Minnesota on a requisition for a misdemeanor. I have known Governor Johnson for years, and after it was all over, I chanced to call at the Minnesota capitol, and the governor told me he wouldn't have had it happen for anything. We had fished and hunted and played cards and neighborhooded together for eight years. He's a prince."

ROOT AND TAFT ARE THE DOMINATING INFLUENCES OF ROOSEVELT'S CABINET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The latest rumor in cabinet circles declares that Elihu Root, secretary of state, is losing his health beneath his public burdens and may be forced to resign. While it is denied at the White House, according to press correspondents, that Mr. Root has any present intention of leaving the president's official family yet in spite of this fact those who are acquainted with the situation are aware that Mr. Root is disposed to lay down the burden of public life almost any day. He had practically decided to retire early in the summer, but decided to remain temporarily at the earnest solicitation of the president. He visited the famous Muldoon athletic camp, and was greatly benefited. Since then, however, he has slipped back to some extent and although nothing official has taken place between him and the president, friends of the secretary say that unless he improves a great deal within a short time he will retire from office.

The cabinet would lose a strong and forceful man should Root retire. He, with Secretary of War Taft, are the dominating spirits of the president's official family. Side by side with Taft Secretary Root has participated in the development of the new system of government made necessary by the Spanish war. If Mr. Root were a younger man and his health did not appear to be materially undermined he would unquestionably prove a formidable candidate for the presidency. Root, Taft and the president have practically been closer together than any three men in the nation's capital in working out the existing problems of colonial government. The picture shown above was taken just before the secretary of war left for his world trip and is suggestive of the close relationship between these two members of the cabinet, a relationship which may now possibly have to be broken.

WARD FOR PATIENTS WITH TUBERCULOSIS

ASYLUM TRUSTEES IN FAVOR OF THIS SYSTEM

DIRECT RESULT OF LECTURE

Trustee Thomas Stavrum, Delegated to Hear Specialist Favorably Impressed With Plan.

A special ward for patients afflicted with tuberculosis may be established at the La Crosse County hospital for the chronic insane at West Salem, Wis., provided the wish of the board of trustees of the institution is carried out.

This will be one of the first direct results of the lecture on "The Great White Plague," by Dr. John Belfell, Milwaukee, Wis., at Travelers' hall under the auspices of the Medical society of the Seventh Wisconsin district last Thursday night.

Trustees of the county asylum took more than a passing interest in the lecture on tuberculosis and its dreaded effects. So interesting were the trustees on the subject that Thomas Stavrum, of Stavrum & Hulberg, one of the trustees, was delegated to attend the meeting.

For some time the trustees have been discussing the advisability of establishing a ward for tuberculosis patients, but the subject received little interest at first. When the announcement of the lecture was given out, the trustees sent a member to hear it, and then decided on the establishment of the ward.

Several are diseased. Several of the county patients at the asylum are afflicted with tuberculosis in one form or another. At present all the patients, classed in the dangerous and non-dangerous classes, are allowed to mingle. The dangerous patients are separated in cells, but no distinction is drawn between the tubercular and non-tubercular. The trustees believe the patients afflicted with tuberculosis ought to receive special and proper treatment, and also be separated from those not afflicted, to prevent any possible spread of the dread disease.

Special food for the afflicted, with special quarters for sleeping also are desired.

In all probability the county board of supervisors will be asked to appropriate a sum of money to Three petitions, all asking for the construction of a new wagon bridge from Onaska to French is and over Black river, in the same place as the old bridge, were read by the county clerk. Fifty-seven signers attached their names to the petition. The petitioners reside in Onaska, city and town, and in the town of Campbell. The petitioners ask that the county build the bridge.

The petition was referred to the road and bridge committee, with the order that a report be made at this evening.

Many Want Increase. Supervisor R. W. Davis introduced a resolution, authorizing Chairman V. S. Keppel to appoint a committee of three to fix salaries for the ensuing year.

Several of the county officers, and employees will ask for increases, while Sheriff C. J. Burns will ask for increase in compensation for the board of prisoners. The high cost of living is the cause of the request of the sheriff for more pay.

It is expected County Clerk Rawlinson will ask for an allowance of $250 for clerk hire. John Costley, register in probate, will ask for an increase from $900 to $1,200. There also was talk this morning of placing the office of register of deeds on a straight salary basis, at request of the register of deeds, F. H. Aiken.

Pierce reads Report. J. M. Pierce, chairman of the poor commission, read the annual report of the commission, showing progress and expense of conducting the county poor farm.

For permanent improvements, the sum of $679.71, for a cold storage building and ice house, was spent. The running expenses for the year were $4,318.00, while $5,963.75 was spent for wages and salaries at the farm. The receipts of the farm were $1,194, leaving a total of $4,769.22 for net expenses.

During the year relief was furnished in 233 cases, aiding 726 persons, including 68 who had no legal claim on the county.

Following is a summary of expenses: For poor house and farm, $6,643.46 For outside relief, $5,843.55 For J. M. Pierce, Supt., $250.00 For Elias Jones, Supt., $250.00 For S. L. Burdick, Supt., $900.00 For county physician, $1,200.00 Total expenditures, $15,086.81 Less money collected and paid to county treasurer, $1,351.27

Total net cost to the county for year, $13,735.54

The commissioners ask for an appropriation of $13,000 for the ensuing year.

Commissioner Pierce invited the board to take dinner at the farm tomorrow. Supervisor Oscar Hulberg spoke against the practice, because of the lack of good done by taking dinner at the county's expense, but on motion of Supervisor A. N. Moore, it was voted to take dinner at the farm tomorrow noon.

The report of County Physician G. J. Egan, in connection with the poor farm report, showed that 1,013 persons were treated. Dr. Egan is a candidate for re-election.

Read Reports. Reports of the county treasurer, county clerk and soldiers' relief commission were read and approved. The Soldiers' Relief commission's report showed there were 68 applicants for aid, 34 dependents, and that a balance of $144 remains in the treasury of the commission. The sum of $2,400 was appropriated last year and the commission asks for the same amount for 1908.

Fix Election Days. On motion of Supervisor M. McHugh the time for electing a county physician was made Wednesday morning. A supervisor of assessments will be chosen at the same time. Dr. G. J. Egan and Dr. Herman Wolfe are candidates for the office. James E. Kezler probably will be re-elected supervisor of assessments, as there is no opposition.

On Friday a trustee of the La Crosse county insane asylum will be elected. For the latter office there are four candidates, including the present incumbent, Sol Burdick. George Will, C. A. Peterson and John Hauser also are candidates.

At 11:30 o'clock the board adjourned until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Candidates for Physician. The board tomorrow morning will select the next county physician. Dr. E. J. Egan, the present incumbent, is a candidate for re-election, and Dr. Herman Wolfe is also a candidate for the office. It is stated this afternoon that the city members of the board favor the candidacy of Dr. Egan, and that he will in all probability be re-elected.

Asylum Trustee's Report. At the afternoon session, Thomas Stavrum, chairman of the board of trustees of the La Crosse county insane asylum, read the annual report. This followed the introduction of the reports of the minority and majority members of the committee on assessments.

The total receipts of the asylum for the year were $4,020.52. Following is the recapitulation, showing the receipts and cash on hand: Cash on hand July 1, 1906, $7,986.52 Cash received from state, $14,458.32 Cash from other sources, $4,020.52

Cash resources for year, $26,465.46 Less amt of orders issued, $13,087.40

Balance in hands of treasurer, $13,378.06 Estimated receipts for coming year, $14,500.25

Cash resources for coming year, $27,878.31 The running expenses of the asylum for the year were $12,904.18, of which $5,396.95 was for salaries.

Judge Fruit today heard the suit of William Tabal against W. W. Kildow for $100 for the conversion of two grips and their contents. Kildow claims his wife converted the goods. Judge Fruit took the case under advisement.

Hogs dropped 75 cents per hundred this morning and butter on the wholesale market advanced two cents per pound. The change in the price of hogs is said to be due to the tightness of the money market in the east, while the advance in butter is caused by the small supply on the market.

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST

COWS AFFLICTED; 35 SLAUGHTERED

MANKATO HEALTH BOARD ACTS QUICKLY

TO PROTECT THE RESIDENTS

Cattle Had Tuberculosis—Surgeons, Physicians, Veterinarians and Inspectors Watch Killing.

MANKATO, Minn., Nov. 12.—Monday thirty-five dairy cows that failed to pass the tuberculin test were slaughtered at the packing house in the presence of several local physicians, four graduate veterinary surgeons of the state sanitary board, a number of dairymen and farmers, besides the government inspector, city health officer and others. The cattle slaughtered proved to be all affected with tuberculosis, some in the early stages and others in very advanced stages. Every one present was convinced of the fact of the cows having tuberculosis, and as fast as bunches of condemned cattle are gathered together they will be slaughtered.

The cattle slaughtered are from six dairy herds, and the cows left in those herds are absolutely free from tuberculosis. Some of the cows were young and looked to be healthy, but those more advanced with the disease could have been readily picked out without a test. In time the disease would have spread among all the cows in the herds.

Those whose cows were killed will receive $28 for each cow, as the appraised value of common cows is $35 each, under the law. Registered thoroughbreds can be appraised up to $75, and the owner gets four-fifths of the value from

STATE IN BRIEF

ASHLAND—An uncommonly stubborn fire, which lasted one week has just been extinguished on the Clarkson coal dock. A week ago fire was detected under the big coal pile. It was found necessary to move some of the coal and after between 700 and 800 tons had been removed, the seat of the trouble was reached and the fire extinguished.

JANESVILLE—Earl Baxter, a 16 year old farm hand employed in the town of Johnson, has been arrested on the charge of having assaulted the 4 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Gonia.

JANESVILLE—Jealous because his master played with another dog, Rex, a white bulldog of Joe Kanauch, sprang at his owner and fastened his teeth in Mr. Kanauch's left cheek. Before the brute could be induced to let go his hold, Mr. Kanauch's face was terribly mangled.

FLORENCE—William Judge has sold the Brule farm, three miles north of Florence, to Ralph N. Washburn of this city. The property, which is one of the best farms in this part of the country, lies on the Michigan side of the Brule river, the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, and consists of 224 acres, the greater part of which is under cultivation.

MENOMONIE—Theodore Louis, well known as an agricultural lecturer and writer, is critically ill.

MADISON—The secretary of state Monday received the first printed copy of the new primary election law in pamphlet form. Copies will be mailed to town, county and city officials.

KENOSHA—The will of Joan Le Van Stevens, the original settler of Kenosha, filed for probate in the county court, bequeaths property valued at 100,000. John Le Van Stevens, Jr., is named as the principal beneficiary under the will, but the property is placed in trust during the life of the son.

JANESVILLE—Remanded to jail on failure to produce $800 bail, a 6 year old Earl Baxter, charge with assault upon 4 year old Maud Gonia, daughter of a Johnstown farmer, must wait until Thursday for his hearing. The boy denies the charge, but admits he took liberties with the child.

JANESVILLE—James Kelley, who claims his parents live at Eau Claire, is in jail here for five days pending an investigation of the charge that he picked a companion's pockets.

MADISON—The Citizens' State bank of Blanchardville, Lafayette county, filed articles of incorporation in the office of the state commissioner of banking. Its capital stock is $15,000, and its incorporators are A. McKellar, Christ Kring, Oscar Olson, and several others.

KENOSHA—The entire family of Louis Robsel, a well known liquor dealer of Kenosha, was found overcome by coal gas at the residence at an early hour Monday morning. One of the boarders came home late and found the house filled with gas. Five people were found to be unconscious in the house, but the prompt work of physicians saved their lives.

RACINE—Since the factories and other business houses of the city commenced issuing checks many people who have cash have been doing a scalping business, making the check holder believe the paper was not worth full value. Notices were published on Monday warning people that the checks were good for the full amount, and that grocers and others must take them for full value. SUPERIOR—The Pittsburg Coal company on Monday started suit in the circuit court to have taken off the assessment rolls $82,000 worth of railroad coal. The company maintains that although the coal is on its docks, it is sold to the railroads and is not taxable to either it or the railroads.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE CHASING AFTER DEER

SUPERIOR, Wis., Nov. 12.—Senator Robert M. La Follette is the most distinguished member of a party of deer hunters that went into camp at the Musser Sautry Tamarack farm, forty miles south of here today. The senator arrived yesterday morning accompanied by Robert, Jr., and Speaker Herman L. Ekern. Joining the party here were former Speaker Irvin Lenroot, former Assemblyman Ray Nye, Dr. Charles Giesen, George Bubar, William Wilkinson and S. T. Sullivan. The party will be in camp a week and Nick Lucius and others will spend some time with the members. Lenroot is the "king" hunted of the crowd and it is expected that he and Senator La Follette will do most of the deer chasing. While the members of the party are prominent in republican politics all connected with it said it was "a deer hunting trip purely."

WISCONSIN NEWS

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD STATE CONVENTION

WILL IGNORE PRIMARY LAW

It Is Expected Meeting Will be Called in Milwaukee During Spring Date Not Yet Decided.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—A convention for the election of delegates to the democratic national convention next year will be held by the democratic party of Wisconsin. Initial steps to such an end were taken at a meeting of the state central committee at the Plankinton house last night. While no definite action was taken, the matter was carefully and fully discussed and there was no division of opinion among the committee on the question of holding a convention. The time and the place were left open but it will probably be held in Milwaukee some time next May.

Will Ignore Primary Law.
In brief, this action means the determination of the Wisconsin democracy to go ahead next year in defiance of the primary election law, the same as was done in the 1906 campaign.

The meeting of the committee was brief, there seeming to be little sentiment antagonistic to the plan followed last year. The democrats who came to the city to attend the Bryan dinner spoke generally in favor of the plan. The harmony of the 1906 campaign, in the face of certain defeat, inclined them to believe that the convention system was better for the party. It would preclude the possibility of a factional fight in the party.

No Opposition in Primary.

The delegates to the state convention will be elected by caucus, the state convention will select the delegates to the national convention as in days gone by and the ticket thus chosen will be submitted to the chosen to party at the primary. In order to carry out the law to that extent, in effect, however, the primary law is ignored, the primary ballot being purely formal, with only one candidate for each office on the ticket.

DRAWS OUT SAVINGS; HELD UP AND ROBBED

MANITOWOC, Wis., Nov. 12.—Following his custom set by several of his neighbors, John Stuecker, a Chilton farmer withdrew his savings from the bank, amounting to $1,800 and departed for home. Yesterday he heard some one outside the farmhouse and opened the door, when revolvers were thrust in his face and he was forced to get his money and deliver it over to two masked men.

WOMEN MAY WEAR HATS IN CHURCH

RACINE, Wis., Nov. 12.—The Rev. Dr. Colville of the First Presbyterian church has created a stir in religious circles, by declaring in open meeting last night that it may be all right for ladies to remove their hats in a theatre, but that they could wear them in the Presbyterian church.

Perhaps women are wearing sleeves short enough to expose their funny-bones merely to prove that they have a sense of humor.

Many a man who is disappointed in love doesn't find it out until after he is married.

TWO YOUTHFUL HUNTERS LOSE THEIR LIVES

CANOE FOUND TIPPED OVER

One Nimrod in Michigan Is Killed—Two Others Are Shot While in Pursuit of Game

EAGLE RIVER, Wis., Nov. 12.—Hugh Dutcher, 21 years of age, with his brother Roy, were drowned in Eagle lake Sunday. The boys started out in a canoe with their guns to spend the day in hunting. When they did not return at dark their parents, who live on the shore of the lake, became anxious and began searching. At daybreak the boys were still missing and the people of Eagle River were notified. Search was continued until about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the canoe was found in the bottom of the lake near shore. The bodies have not yet been recovered. Mrs. Dutcher, the mother, is prostrated. Hugh, the older brother, was an excellent swimmer.

Shot by a Companion.
LADYSMITH, Wis., Nov. 12.—A. D. Crouse of Viola was shot by a companion while on a hunting trip eight miles north of here. He jumped in range just as his companion fired and a 30-30 bullet passed through both legs. As the bones are badly shattered, amputation may be necessary.

Shot in the Leg.
KENOSHA, Wis., Nov. 12.—Ben Windsor, son of B. F. Windsor, president of the Windsor Spring company, was shot in the right leg while hunting. Everett Hale, a Chicago boy, was loading a rifle, when it was prematurely discharged.

One Man Dead, Two Injured.
NEGAUNEE, Mich., Nov. 12.—One man dead and two seriously wounded is the record for the opening of the deer hunting season in Negaunee. A foreigner whose name has not been learned, was shot by an unknown man, who fired at a covey of partridges. The wounded man was brought to the hospital, where he died early in the morning. Gustav Makki was shot in the foot and Gus Lehtonen was shot in the arm by unknown parties.

Reduces Fat A Pound a Day

The Simplest, Surest and Most Effective Way To Get Rid of Surplus Flesh Without Drugs.

How To Prove It To Yourself Without Any Expense Whatever.

The first thing not to do when trying to reduce your weight is to take something that contains a drug of any kind, or try to starve the fat away.

The moment you begin to do that, you give a distinct shock to the entire nervous and digestive systems, and though you may lose some fat as a result, you will lose your health with it.

Cases are numerous of fat people becoming permanent invalids by the use of starvation diets and dangerous reducers.

Fat people as well as others, should realize that, as a general rule, there is a remedy for every defect of the human organism. Nature provides a remedy for nearly every disease. It is a law of the universe.

This is true of that dangerous and uncomfortable disease—obesity. Nature provides a remedy, not from the dangerous drugs and biting acids extracted from minerals, but from extracts of fruits, plants, herbs and other organic materials which are harmonious to the human system.

Among such materials there is known a remedy for obesity which has not yet become universally known, but the use of which has already resulted in enormous benefit, and most probably in the saving of many lives.

This remedy is commonly called Rengo. The rate at which this remedy will reduce fat, and do it harmlessly and surely, is truly remarkable. A pound a day is ordinarily the loss recorded, being done by compelling perfect assimilation of the food, and sending the nutriment where it belongs.

The most remarkable feature of Rengo is that you can take all you want of it without running the slightest risk of harm. It can be chewed like candy and is pleasant to the taste.

Many physicians, who before were at a loss to know how to cure obesity, are now prescribing Rengo with remarkable success. It is a great nerve-strength producer, affecting digestion primarily, and inducing a general exhilaration of mind and body. Wrinkles which appear in nearly every case of reduction of fat where injurious drugs and starvation process is tried, do not occur where Rengo is used.

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by The Rengo Co., 3185 Rengo Bldg., Detroit Mich. The Company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores. For sale and recommended in La Crosse by O. T. Erhart's Red Cross Drug Stores and C. F. & L. Runckel, Druggists.

URNS SOCIALIST; QUILTS MINISTRY

KENOSHA, Wis., Nov. 12.—A stir was caused in religious circles here when it became known that the Rev. Harvey Dee Brown, pastor of the First Baptist church in this city, had given to his members a letter in which he announced his conversion to the cause of socialism and in the same letter his retirement from the ministry of the Baptist church after fifteen years of labor. The announcement made by the minister is a strong arraignment of the conventional church for the manner in which it deals with the social problem.

FAINTS BEFORE SUPREME COURT

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 12.—While arguing a case in the supreme court yesterday Attorney H. W. Barney of Mauston fainted and it was necessary to suspend proceedings while he was being revived and carried from the courtroom. After recovering Mr. Barney said that it was simply a temporary weakness. He left for home on an afternoon train and the argument was concluded by Attorney J. A. Stone of Readsburg, who was associated with Mr. Barney in the case.

YEAR FOR BIGAMIST

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., Nov. 12.—Albert Bates, the much married man yesterday pleaded guilty to bigamy and was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. He claimed that while he had been married many times still he thought his wives had always taken out divorces before he married again. His last wife had evidence, however, that his predecessor was not divorced. Bates says separation from his wives was caused by their cruelty to his daughter by his first wife. The sister-in-law with whom Bates eloped has returned home and has received parental forgiveness.
